This next beautiful song, is taken from hearing the debut album (I think), from Beverley Craven by the same name. I m not sure about the correctness of the chords -- so if someone has better solutions, please let me know...

Missing You Beverley Craven

```
Bm                        F#m
The dreams I have are unrepeatable,
Bm                       F#m
And you always play a starring role,
Bm                        F#m
I m just glad to have the time with you,
Bm       C#                 F#m
It s the only place we can go.

I walk around the next day in a daze,
Flashes of a feeling of your face,
Three photographs, a letter and my memories,
Are all I have to fill this space.

              Bm    Dm    Bm
   Now you ve gone,    now you ve gone,
                      Em
   But I keep missing you,
                F#7
   I keep missing you,
             Bm    Dm     Bm
   Now you ve gone,    now you ve gone,
                      Em
   But I keep missing you,
                C#7    - F#
   I keep missing you.

Sometimes I laugh the way you used to laugh,
Or say the things you used to say,
If you can see me now, just give me a sign,
```

Cos I can t believe you ve really gone.

Now you ve gone, now you ve gone, ... etc.

;; Instrumental: start of verse, continue with last two verse-lines:

```
Bm          C#                      F#m
The way you tossed your hair, and fooled around,
Bm      C#          F#m
Will we ever meet again?
```

Now you ve gone, now you ve gone, ... etc.
