Am                              D                Am                        D
I got a blank space where my mind should be, got a cliff bar and some cold green tea.
    Am                  D               Am                  D
Got clouds that seem to follow me, got strange demands all up on me
    E                                                                Back to Am
Got memories, got memories, got memories, memories of being free

Gonna steal time from the faulty plan, gonna act as though I m still a man.
Gonna give you one last chance to see, gonna shrug demands off of me
Gonna dream, gonna dream, gonna dream, gonna dream, dream of being free

E                          D            E                   D
Gonna steal time from the faulty plan, steal time from the faulty plan
Gonna steal time from the faulty plan, stealing time from the faulty plan

Am                          D
Got a blank space where my mind should be
Got a blank space where my mind should be
Got a blank space where my mind should be Got a blank space where my mind should be
