Intro:

G G Am G

Verse 1

G
Oh, Monday morning waking up still too numb to speak
Am G
Another night just staring at the wall.
G
Last night s conversation knocked me off my feet
Am G
guess today I ll fall
Em C
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
G D
Be careful of the things we do and watch the things we say
Em C
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
G D
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Verse 2

Walk the streets in New Orleans, shirt soaked to my skin
Through the mess of yesterday s parade.
Thousand times a day I think of calling you again
Come to my senses instead.
And every time we walk away we lose a little time
Pretending to each other now that everything is fine.
I know whatever lies I use to get myself to sleep
I wake up to the promises I know we couldn t keep.

Chorus:

              G  D
Say you don t see what s wrong
      Em            C
Every night lasting oh so long,
      G       D                  G     C D
And I know, I do, you re already gone.

Bridge:

Em  C  G  D,  Em  C  G  D

  Bm                      Em
I wonder should I get up, would but what s the point?
C                   D                  G     D/F#
Oh once something s gone it s gone for good.
Em            B/D#      G/D              A/C#
Maybe I could look away back to where we used to be,
Am                     D
One more time I wish I could.

Verse 3

Oh, nevermind the reasons that tore us all apart
We ve both done things I know we can t defend.
What s the use in tracing it all back to the start
THere s something missing in the end.
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
Be careful of the things we do and everything we say
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Chorus:

              G  D
Say you don t see what s wrong
      Em            C
Every night lasting oh so long,

      G       D                   Em    C
And I know, I do, you re already gone.
     G       D                  G     C D G
Oh I know, I do, you re already gone.
