F#          B               C#
 There you walk out on the high wire
B         F#           B
 You re dancer on thin ice
F#           B             C#
 You pay no heed to the danger
Bbm             Ebm  C# F#
 And less to advice
F#                     B   C#
 Your footsteps are forbidden
          Bbm                B  C# F#
 But with knowledge of your sin
                         C#      B     F#
 You throw your love to all the strangers
                            Ebm
 And the caution to the wind

 And you go dancing through the doorways
B       C#                   F#   B
 Just to see what you gonna find there
F#        B         C#
 Leaving nothing to interfere

 With the crazy balance of your mind
F#             B             C#
 And when you finally reappear
        Bbm              B    C# F#
 At the place where you came in
F#                    B              B    F#
 You ve thrown your love to all the strangers

It takes love over gold

And mind over matter

To do what you do that you must

When the things that you hold

Can fall and be shattered

Or run through your fingers like dust
