              F                                C#
he says he s tired of working overtime and troubles weighing on his mind in G#                  F                              C#
class. he said he d like to pack his bags and run away, and never look Eb                 F                                     C#
back. he says this life of mine s like doing time for crimes that i didn t
  G#                F                                C#
commit. he says if life is just a game, i m on the losing team - and i Eb
just want to quit.
              C#                                  G#
and she says we can take this weekend, drive out past city limits, keep on Eb                          F         C#
driving just as far as we can go. and maybe when we get back, things will G#                           Eb
seem a little better, things will work out in a way we couldn t know...

driving just as far as we can go. and we can take this weekend, and make it Eb                                                  C#
last forever, deal the shackles of our lives a breaking blow. because to G#                              Eb
run away is victory, a tank of gas is freedom, and a starry night and open F   C#                          G# road is hope. we can take my fast car, or maybe just close our eyes, and G#                                                          F
when we open them the world we want ... can be the world we know.
