  C                     Bb
I am a man of constant sorrow,
                         C
I ve seen trouble all my days
                        Bb
I ll say goodbye to Colorado,
                              C
where I was born and prob ly raised

                        Bb
Your mother says I am a stranger,
                            C
my face you ll never see no more
                        Bb
But there s one promise darling,
                              C
I ll see you on God s golden shore
```

C

```
                                      Bb
Through this open world I m about to ramble,
                    C
dry snow, sleet and rain
                                Bb
I am about to rob the mornin  railroad,
                         C
perhaps I ll die on that train

                      Bb
I m goin  back to Colorado,
                     C
place that I started from
                            Bb
If I d knowed how bad you d treat me,
                           C
honey, I never would have come
```
