C?                                G
Troubles up and down the road and trials all the way around
  C?                                  G
I never knew what trouble was till my honey threw me down
     C?                                 G
With nothing but old ragged clothes my heart strings broken to shreds
     C?                            G
Blues creeping over my body queer notions flying in my head

C? G

    C?                            G
The easiest thing I ever done was loving and drinking wine
    C?                            G
The hardest thing I ever done was paying off a judge s fine
       C?                                     G
No, I ve never worked for pleasure peace on earth I cannot find
    C?                           G
The only thing I surely own is a worried and troubled mind
   Bb5                            A5
If men and wine don t kill me the one more plan to find
     C?
Iâ€™ll soak up all the old rub-alcohol
    G
and ease all trouble off my mind
     D5                                          C5
Iâ€™ll ease all trouble off my mind, my mind, my mind.
