I m unsure about some of the lyrics so please comment to tell me if they re wrong. Cheers, Tim

```
C#                                  G#              Fm              D#
From the valley of the jungle, to the bottom of the sea
C#                                  G#              Fm              D#
You re a river in Congo, just a hardened ectasy
C#                                  G#              Fm              D#
From the forest of Arden where I reside, blood will be blood
C#                                  G#              Fm              D#
Back in Arden you twist, deprive, blood to be..

C#                                                          D#
You vibe so hard, and if livings forever..

C#                                                                  D#
We spit blood at the sun, we spit blood in the ocean
C#                                                                  D#
We spit blood at the sun, we spit blood in the ocean

C#                                  G#              Fm              D#
As we plunge into the ocean the waves they pull us down
C#                                  G#              Fm              D#
For a moment i m open, for blood to be...
