People Always Talk About The Weather
Yonderboi

Notes:
The song depends heavily on instruments, so one guitar by itself probably will make you feel something s missing. If you can find another guitar that will play the solo simultaneously, I m pretty sure it ll sound great. I haven t got the chance to try it though, sorry.
The solo tab in the link below works perfect with this tab.

B = 334553
G#m = 000220
 You can do a trick in the bridge part. You should play not a full measure but half measure for the first Em, then quickly change to the second part of the intro in the link above. Easier with finger strumming, but not that hard with a pick neither, give it a try, i say.

[Solo]

C#m                      B
Day by day I won t get younger
C#m                      G#m
I m afraid I m getting older
Life is always getting faster
Can t take me any higher
Escape from fun
Plan to see it all
What I was looking for
On one of those days
C#m                 B
When everybody was seriously dramatic
C#m                     G#m                 C#m
Dissatisfied with something they can t change

B                               C#m
Maybe they re still there all praying
   G#m                  C#m
For break in the weatheer
   B                   C#m
For break in the weatheer
  G#m
(weather weather weather...)
