Party In My Pants
Roger Miller

The Chorus and verse are nearly identical with the exception of the Em on the third line.

```
          D                             A
There s a party in my pants and you re invited
                                E
A big fiesta in my trousers I m excited
       A                               D
I m so happy my little cupcake I can t hide it
          A           E                A
There s a party in my pants and you re invited

    A                                    D
I m sick and tired of sad and broke and busted
    A                           E
I m takin  leave of my troubles today
F#m                                      D
Hide everything you don t want to get shattered
      A                   E              A
Woah, Tonight we re gonna roll the rules away.
```

Chorus/intro repeat

If you re tired of knock knock jokes and conversation

Crank up the radio and kill the light

Let s get on this gay love celebration

We gonna party in my britches tonight
