(repeat as necessary)

                  A                F#m7
We were watching TV,     Watching TV
                  A                F#m7
We were watching TV,     Watching TV

Dadd9     B7
Dadd9     B7
Dadd9     D/B     B7      E

                 A                      F#m7
In Tiananmen Square,     Lost my baby there
           A                                    F#m7
My yellow rose,          In her bloodstained clothes
          Dadd9        B7
She was a short order pastry chef
     Dadd9                    B7
In a Dim Sum dive on the Yangtze tideway
        Dadd9        A/B
She had shiny hair
           B7                      E
She was the daughter of an engineer
                 A                      F#m7
Won t you shed a tear,   For my yellow rose
            A                                 F#m7
My yellow rose,          In her bloodstained clothes
        Dadd9                    B7
She had perfect breasts, She had high hopes
        Dadd9                    B7
She had almond eyes,     She had yellow thighs
          D      D/B   B7      E
She was a student of philosophy
                      A   A/F#    F#m7
Won t you grieve with me, for my yellow rose,
            A    A/F#   F#m7                     E
Shed a tear,             For her bloodstained clothes
        A        A/F#            F#m7
She had shiny hair,      She had perfect breasts
       Dadd9       D/B          B7          E
She had high hopes,      She had almond eyes
        A           A/F#
She had yellow thighs
            F#m7                    E
```

She was the daughter of an engineer
A D
So get out your pistols, Get out your stones
A D
Get out your knives, Cut them to the bone
A A/F# F#m7
They are the lackeys of the grocer s machine
A D
They built the dark satanic mills
A D
That manufacture hell on earth
A A/F# F#m7
They bought the front row seats on Calvary
D E
They are irrelevant to me

E Edim5
And I grieve for my sister

People of China
Do not forget do not forget
The children who died for you
Long live the Republic
Did we do anything after this
I ve a feeling we did

A F#m7
We were watching TV, Watching TV
A F#m7
We were watching TV, Watching TV
Dadd9 B7
She wore a white bandanna that said Freedom now
Dadd9
She thought the Great Wall of China
B7
Would come tumbling down
A A/F#
She was a student
F#m7 E
Her father was an engineer
A F#m7
Won t you shed a tear, For my yellow rose
A F#m7
My yellow rose, In her bloodstained clothes
Dadd9 B7
Her grandpa fought old Chiang Kai-shek
Dadd9 B7
That no-good low-down dirty rat
D D/B
Who used to order his troops
B7 E
To fire on the women and children

```
Imagine that imagine that
  A                     F#m7
And in the spring of  48
  A                        F#m7
Mao Tse-tung got quite irate
  A               A/F#         F#m7
And he kicked that old dictator Chiang
           E
Out of the state of China
  A                           F#m7
Chiang Kai-shek came down in Formosa
A                             B7
And they armed the island of Quemoy
        A
And the shells were flying across the China Sea
         F#m7                   D           D/B    B7    E
And they turned Formosa into a shoe factory called Taiwan
           A                   Dadd9
And she is different from Cro-Magnon man
      A               Dadd9
She s different from Anne Boleyn
       A         A/F#        F#m7
She is different from the Rosenbergs
     E
And from the unknown Jew
A                        Dadd9          A
She is different from the unknown Nicaraguan
Dadd9          A           A/F#
Half superstar half victim
        F#m7           Dadd9         E
She s a victor star conceptually new
A                             Dadd9
And she is different from the Dodo
A                    Dadd9
And from the Kankanbono
A                A/F#        F#m7
She is different from the Aztec
     E
And from the Cherokee
  A               Dadd9
She s everybody s sister
 A                       Dadd9
She s symbolic of our failure
     A          A/F#       F#m7
She s the one in fifty million
        Dadd9               E
Who can help us to be free
Because she died on TV
```
