The Passenger
The Wallflowers

The Passenger by The Wallflowers words and music by Jakob Dylan

Intro: C# F# G# C#

```
C#                                F#
Permission now to let this thing land
   G#                        C#
I m too far gone to know where I am
 C#                            F#
Conditions are worse than we planned
  G#                        C#
Permission now to let this thing land

 C#                         F#
Heading straight into the blackness
 C#                          F#
Beyond the point of ever turning back
  C#                            F#
Slipping off the radar through a hole in space
 G#                            C#
Goes the passenger sitting backwards
```

Adam took the apple
I was not involved
I m not responsible for how lost we are
Batten down the hatches, extinction calls
But Adam took the apple
I was not involved

Heading straight into the blackness
Way beyond the point of ever turning back
Slipping off the radar through a hole in space
Goes the passenger sitting backwards

G#
Maybe a rumble
C#
Maybe nothing more
G#
Maybe a thunder
C#
There before she blows
(I can t figure this out right now...I will later)
Maybe not a big bang
But just a little white noise

Key Change : E A B E

then it changes back

C# F#
Into the furnace of red twilight
G# C#
Threading like a needle through searchlights
Fading further and spinning right
Into the furnace of red twilight

Heading straight into the blackness
Too far gone, now there s no turning back
Slipping off the radar into a hole in space
Goes the passenger sitting backwards