

Lesson Learned

Alicia Keys

A                    C#m                    F#m                    D7M
He broke            my heart            and now it s raining            just don t rub it in
A    C#m            F#m                    D7M
I m            at your            door I feel so crazy bout
A                    C#m                    F#m
D7M
You say I told you so,            you saw it long ago            you knew he had to go
A                    C#m                    F#m
D7M
I finally came around,            I m back on solid ground            can t let it get me down
A                    C#m                    F#m                    D7M
It s alright,            it s alright,            it s alright,            it s alright (2x)

Yes I was burned but I called it a lesson learned.
D7M            A/C#                    E                    F#m            D7M
Mistake overturned so I call it a lesson learned.
D7M            A/C#                    E                    F#m            D7M
My soul has returned so I call it a lesson learned.

Another lesson learned

A                    C#m                    F#m                    D7M
Sometimes            some lies            can take a minute            to fully realize
A                    C#m                    F#m                    D7M
His tears,            your eyes,            30 seconds            to apologize
A                    C#m
You give him one more chance,            just like the time before
F#m                    D7M
But he already knows            you d give a hundred more
A                    C#m
Until that night in bed,            you wake up in a sweat
F#m                    D7M
Your racing to the door,            can t take it anymore

Life perfect, aint perfect if you don t know what the struggles for Bm7                    F#m
E
Falling down aint falling down if you don t cry when you hit the floor

Bm7

F#m

E

It s called the past cause I´m getting past and I m nothing like I was before.

D7M

You ought to see me now.
