

Thank You
Amber Run

Maybe if I opened my arms wide enough I d take flight
Oh, and close my eyes for long enough I d see,
And maybe if I wait the wind will blow me forwards,
Oh, and teach these little lungs how to breathe

D A F#m A x2

And maybe if I build myself a barrier,
It d force someone to try and tear it down
And maybe if I dream enough the impossible would happen
Oh, and live so long the world stops spinning round

Just know I m happy as I am,
I m happy as I am,
And it s thanks to you
And it s thanks to you

Well maybe I pull myself down,
I ve been praying for deals I d never sell,
I ve been following your light, well I had never saw, no,
You gotta pick me up and tell me where I ve been going wrong
Well, pick me up and tell me where I ve been going wrong

And you said we re all just skin and bones,
Just skin and bones,
Just skin and bones,

D

Were scattered in the wind,

We ll end up where we re supposed to be

And it s thanks to you

F#m

That I am here and you re here too

D A F#m A

The entire world seems brand new

D A F#m A

And it s thanks to you

D A F#m A

D A F#m A

And it s thanks to you

D A F#m A

Oh, it s thanks to you
