CAPO on first fret!

A D

New York City

A

Where all your girls are pretty

F#m

D

All your men are running from somewhere

Making a name for themselves

Are you running from something

Or did you come from nothing

Are you testing the Lord

With the cards that you ve been dealt

Where do you find peace

In the middle of the city

Hard enough to find a friend

When everyone s starting over again

I feel like a child

In a world that seems shapeless

When I am most afraid

Is when I get sucked back in

Yeah, you came here with nothing

And your leaving with the same

Sometimes the road that you were walking on

Is going the wrong way

Just come as you are

When you leave you will be changed

Everyday is a gift, everyday is a gift

And it s all slipping away

Now if you leave

Will you feel defeated

Cause you didn t take from the city

As much as the city took from you

What if you'd stayed
What if you'd done what you were thinking
I'd rather you give up on life in the city
Than giving up on life too

It must be hard to live
In the midst of all those buildings
Where the changing of the wind
Don't seem a miracle at all

And by the hands of man
It's a maze of bad habits
Where the rabbit in the hat
Is just a train in the fog

Yeah, you came here with nothing
And your leaving with the same
Sometimes the road that you were walking on
Is going the wrong way

Just come as you are
When you leave you will be changed
Everyday is a gift, everyday is a gift
And it's all slipping away

Follow your dreams
But beware of the illusions
You won't feel the void in your heart
With a bank statement and a car

What is it worth, what is it worth
Have you given up on freedom
You spent your life earning the keys to set you free
When you were free all along

New York City
Where all your girls are pretty
All your men are running from somewhere
Making a name for themselves

Are you running from something
Or did you come from nothing
Are you testing the Lord
With the cards that you've been dealt
