Base intro: E-A-C-D
В
Sometimes the Universe
                                                                  C-C#
Fits inside my world
There s nowhere else to be
                                                                  C-C#-F#
And no place to return
The power in my hands
Let law be made by force
At times my conscience speaks
                                                                                       C-C#-F#
But now it s more and more
The day I m waiting for...
В
... Is in the air I breathe
                                                                                      C-C#
Fine and strong and pure
Out in the sea beneath,
                                                                                      C-C#-F#
The mountains and the shore
Inside this picture,
                                                              C-C#
A city made by God
Irrational progress
                                                                                          C-C#-F#
But now it s more and more
Today the skies are blue
                                                                                  В
                                                                                                             Α
I hold the sun tight in my arms...

Rio, falling apart
           G
Someday I will die for you
Never, never give it up
          G
One day I will die for you
In your arms!

I see my universe
Grow larger than before
             F#-G
Maybe it s just because
Nobody card to shut the door!
В
I m locked inside your arms,
The key is in my soul
There is no true escape
                  C-C#-F#
So here s where I belong
I look around and see
            C-C#
A city made by God
I used to be free
                C-C#-F#
But now I am no more
       D
Together we are strong
