Base intro: F#-B-D-E
C#
Sometimes the Universe
                                                                   D-Eb
Fits inside my world
C#
There s nowhere else to be
                                                                    D-Eb-G#
And no place to return
C#
The power in my hands
                                                                                D-Eb
Let law be made by force
At times my conscience speaks
                                                                                        D-Eb-G#
But now it s more and more
The day I m waiting for...
C#
... Is in the air I breathe
Fine and strong and pure
C#
Out in the sea beneath,
                                                                                       D-Eb-G#
The mountains and the shore
C#
Inside this picture,
                                                               D-Eb
A city made by God
Irrational progress
                                                                                            D-Eb-G#
But now it s more and more
Today the skies are blue
                                                                                    C#
                                                                                                                   В
                                                                                                                                   Riff
