

Lusitania

Andrew Bird

Pretty easy song, I would have posted sooner, but I waiting for the lyrics to show up on the internet. This was just released today (technically still unreleased at time of posting) but you can find it online at NPR s First Listen. Great song!

Capo at 3.

Here is that little [intro]:

```
|-----|
|-----|
|-----|
|-----|
|----0-3--|
|--3-----|
```

Then:

C

[Verse]

C

If you loosen liable lips

C

You keep sinking all my ships

Am C

Oh and youre the one who sank my Lusitania

Am C

But somehow it dont register as pain, at all

G

Till it finds our crooked vein

F

It should help

F

Oh lets not remember the name

[Chorus]

F

Oh-oh-oh ooo

F C

You made lines along your shore

F

Oh no ooo

F C

Through my heart that ripped and tore

F

Oh ooo

F

G

We dont study this war no more

Am, C, Am, C,

G, F, C

[Verse]

C

So we let our backbones slip

C

Till the arc spits from my fingertips

Am

C

And well become a hazard in the rain

Am

C

Boy well get charged out in the way

G

And theres a 60-cycle hum

C

Go ahead, say something dumb boy, theres no shame

G

Theres no shame

C

Go ahead, say something dumb boy, theres no shame

[Chorus]

F

Oh-oh-oh ooo

C

You laid mines along your shore

F

Oh no ooo

C

Through my heart that ripped and tore

F

Oh ooo

F

G

We dont study this war no more

C [repeat the little intro line before each bar.]
