

Clapton Pond Acoustic
Apologies I Have None

I know it s not the clearest of tabs, but I ve tried to get the chord changes in the right place although there will be some chords out of place somewhat. This is the acoustic version of the song

E B A
Clapton let out its last breath and eases to morning light
E B A
and our shattered voices echo and carry like sirens
E B
Tonight I m leaning on every word that you ve been saying and it s been holding me up all along.
A
C#m B E A
All the sidesteps and the silences they would all be worth it in the end
C#, B E A
and every step we have taken wouldn t need to be doubled up again.

E
And it s always like
B
this things they fall apart
when we just can t let go.

E
And it s always like
when we just can t let go.

E B C#m
I m not looking for familiarity or routine
B A
just a little consistency
E B
and for every problem, every mistake, every regret and every headache I C#m B A
wanna leave it all behind somehow
C#m B A
I wanna leave it all behind somehow.

E
And it s always like

this things they fall apart

C#m A

when we just can t let go.

E

And it s always like

this things they fall apart

C#m A

when we just can t let go.

E B A

Paranoia and anxiety are not on my side

E

they never were

B A

I thought I had all this figured out

E B A

All this is progress towards perfection.

E B A

All this is progress towards perfection.

E B A

All this is progress towards perfection.
