

Brighter Than Sunshine
Aqualung

D                    A                    E                    B
I never understood before, I never knew what love was for,
D                    A                    E
My heart was broke, my head was sore, what a feeling.
D                    A                    E                    B
Tied up in ancient history, I didn t believe in destiny,
D                    A                    E
I look up you re standing next to me, what a feeling,
B                    E                    G#m                    G                    F#
What a feeling in my soul, love burns brighter than sunshine,
A                    E                    B                    E
Brighter than sunshine, let the rain fall, I don t care,
G#m                    G                    F#
I m yours and suddenly you re mine,
A                    E                    Em                    B
Suddenly you re mine, and it s brighter than sunshine.
D                    A                    E                    B
I never saw it happening, I d given up and given in,
D                    A                    E
I just couldn t take the hurt again, what a feeling.
D                    A                    E                    B                    D
I didn t have the strength to fight, but suddenly you seemed so right,
A                    E
Me and you, what a feeling.
B                    E                    G#m                    G                    F#
What a feeling in my soul, love burns brighter than sunshine,
A                    E                    B                    E
It s brighter than sunshine, let the rain fall, I don t care,
G#m                    G                    F#                    A                    E
I m yours and suddenly you re mine, suddenly you re mine,
Em                    A                    Em                    A                    Em
And it s brighter than the sun, it s brighter than the sun
A                    Em                    A                    B
It s brighter than the sun, sun, shine.
D                    A                    E                    B
Love will remain a mystery, but give me your hand and you will see,
D                    A                    E
Your heart is keeping time with me.
B                    E                    G#m                    G                    F#
What a feeling in my soul, love burns brighter than sunshine,
A                    E                    B                    E
It s brighter than sunshine, let the rain fall, I don t care,
G#m                    G                    F#                    A                    E
I m yours and suddenly you re mine, suddenly you re mine
B                    E                    G#m                    G                    F#
What a feeling in my soul, love burns brighter than sunshine,
A                    E                    B                    E

It s brighter than sunshine, let the rain fall, I don t care,

G#m                    G                    F#            A                    E

I m yours and suddenly you re mine, suddenly you re mine,

B

And it s brighter than sunshine.