My Everything
Ariana Grande
Intro: E Bm A ( C )
                                            ( Am )
I ve cried enough tears to see my own reflection in them
                    A
And then it was clear I can t deny, I really missed him
                                                                     ( Am )
                        Bm
To think that I was wrong, I guess you don t know what you got til it s gone
                       Bm
Pain is just a consequence of love And saying sorry for the sake of us
             \mathbf{Bm}
                                                      ( Am )
He wasn t my everything til we were nothing. And it s taken me a lot to say
And now that he s gone, my heart is missing something
So it s time to push our pride away
E
                            Αm
Cause you are, you are my everything
                            Αm
      You are, you are, you are my everything
                  Bm
                                                     ( Am )
I know you re not far but I still can t handle all the distance
                         \mathbf{Bm}
                                  Α
You re travelling with my heart, I Hope this is a temporary feeling
                        Bm
Cause it s too much to bare without you and I know sorry ain t the cyre
                                         \mathbf{Bm}
                                                                        ( Am )
So if I cross your mind just know I m yours, what we got is worth fighting for Cause you are
                                                      ( Am )
You were my everything til we were nothing. And it s taken me a lot to say
And now that you re gone, my heart is missing something
        ( Am )
So it s time to push our pride away
E
                   Α
                            Am
      You are, you are my everything
