No Capo

Intro: D E D E

E D A E
Used, like an old piano played for generations slowly fading out of tune

E D A E
Used, like the soles on the bottom of my favorite pair of dancing shoes
D

I know I m not some bright and shiny polished up car
A E

that s sparkling new right off the salesroom floor
D

Yeah I ve got some dents and bruises

I ve been dropped and there s a scar where my heart was broke before
A E

Bm A
but in the end I ll be worth a whole lot more

E
Used

E D A E
Used, like a book read so many times front to back it starts to split in two

E D A
E
Used like a house where a family lived until they died and there s a soul in every room

D A

I know I m not some brand new dress hanging there perfectly pressed
E

that never has been worn
D

I ve got some buttons missing and there s a couple stains
A E

and places where the fabric has been torn Bm A

but in the end I ll be worth a whole lot more E D A

Used

D
This fragile heart has been passed around

been ignored and been let down
