Hmmmm,
I ve never seen it published. We play it in E, so the chords are like E, A, and B. The trick is the chicken picking speed. So, if you already know a walking bass line in E, then just triple your notes and chicken pick it for that Commander Cody feel.

Rather than do TAB, we have a nifty guitar notation that might work. I m a TAB user myself, but I find typing it to be cumbersome so this notation is a fairly decent substitution.

first number = string/second number = fret

B B! B! 6/3 (bend full)
Don t stop driving that Hot Rod Lincoln

6/0+++ 6/3 (hammer on) 6/4++ 5/2+++ 5/4 (pull off) 5/2
5/0+++ 5/3 (h.o.) 5/4++ 4/2+++ 4/4 (p.o.) 4/2
5/2+++ 4/1+++ 4/4++ 3/1 4/4

4/2++ 5/4++ 5/2++ 6/4++ (start again at 6/0)

I m not sure if I really pick each note the number of times (denoted by the +++) I wrote, but I just play that basic walking bass pattern and pick the heck out of it.

Good luck,
Roy Snyder
