

Tonight Is The Night I Fell Asleep At The Wheel
Barenaked Ladies

(I got this tab from another website, but there wasn't one here for this song so I thought I'd post it.)

Okay. This is the deal here. The BNL song here may not be a guitar song, but it can be played on a guitar. But anyway, here we go.

Barenaked Ladies - Tonight is the Night I Fell Asleep at the Wheel

Intro (in 3-4 waltz)

A E D E
Driving home to be with you
the highway's dividing; the city's in view.

Bm F#sus4 F#
As usual I'm almost on time.
You're the last thing that's on my mind.

A E D E
I wish I could tell you the way that I feel but
C#m (or A) E A
tonight is the night I fell asleep at the wheel.

A E D E
No commotion. No screaming breaks.
Most of it's over before I awake.
From the ceiling, my coffee cup drips,
while out my window, the horizon does flips.

Bm F#sus4 F#
The worst part was hitting the ground.
Not the feeling so much as the sound.

A E D E
I can't help but wonder if all this is real, cause
C#m (or A) E A
tonight is the night I fell asleep at the wheel.

Rubberneck traffic and passersby and Slow Motion Walter, the fire engine guy stand around with their mouths open wide.
Heard some idiot ask if someone's inside.
With the jaws of life, they tried and they tried.
Nobody here can know how I feel, cause
tonight is the night I fell asleep at the wheel.

I guess it's over now cause I've never seen so much...
never seen so much...
never seen so much blood.

In all the confusion, there's something serene.
I'm just a posthumous part of the scene.
Now I'm floating above looking in.
While the radio blares and wheels spin.
I can see my face slump with a grin.
And you...

You're the last thing on my mind. (x4)
