During the verses a second guitar just picks the chords, but the first guitar strums them. I m not entirely sure about the F#m at the end of the chorus...I wasn t sure about any of the chords until I found a live acoustic version from some Dutch radio station.

A   C#m   F#m
I know he knocks you off your feet
          Dm   A
You re so bitter you think he s sweet
          C#m   Bm   D
Well he s wrong for you I swear

Did you forget to read the script
There was never a role for him
It was always you and me, just me

F#m C#m Bm   A
Popular mechanics for broken hearts
      G#   F#m
Can help me now

I know you never felt romance
And we always lacked suspense
But I can edit those parts out

I never made you feel complete
I m a faultline beneath your feet
I will never bring you down, so down

Chorus

E   B   C#m   A
Just because he loves you too
E   B   C#m   A
He would never take a bullet for you

E         B          C#m       A
Don t believe a word he says
E         B              C#m          A
He would never cut his heart out for you

  C#m        B            A
I heard he wrote you a song, well so what E                 F#m            D        Bm        A
Some guy wrote sixty-nine, and one just ain t enough

            D            A
And there s no sense in trying
   D
I know cause I ve been B                          G#m
Trying all the time to find
C#m                           A
Something that would make you mine
     E          F#m
But all I ever find my love
    A        B          E
Are clichÃ©s that don t rhyme

Solo (with verse chords -)B--10-12-9--9-10-9-7-3-5-3-1 (repeats the solo a couple times then switches, mnot fully acurate on the solo, also when you do it add a slide to it.)

Chorus

Just because he loves you too
He would never take a bullet for you
Don t believe a word he says
He would never cut his heart out for you

End on A
