Night Train

Bill Morrissey

[A]I ve been hanging around this station [D]long enough to know where the [E]brakeman disappears when the [D]whistle blows

And [A]who s gonna make it out all right when the final night train shows Ah [E]babe, it s [Bm]true

I ve [D]seen a lot of women here waiting just like [A]you. [Asus4] [A]

[A]Hear the fireman start singing the [D]same time every day and his [D]well planned getaway and it s a [A]shame to hear such a pretty voice with not one thing to say Ah [E]babe, it s [Bm]true you [D]would have loved him back in time if he d only sung for [A]you. [Asus4] [A]

[A]Moonlight in the water tower [D]always shines so cold in the [E]shadow of the pay phone the [D]saints are getting bold

And it [A]don t matter to them now if it s real or just fool s gold Ah, [E]babe, it s [F#m]true I [D]heard all the saints tonight talking only of [A]you. [Asus4] [A]

[A]Listen deep into the night, girl Can you [D]hear the whistle blow?
Looks [E]like you re gonna make it out all right but there s [D]one thing you must know:

The only [A]ones who can help you now are the ones who must stay here when you go Ah [E]babe, it s [Bm]true
I ve [D]seen a lot of women here smiling just like [A]you. [Asus4] [A]

[A]And there are some saints still in hiding by the [D]river in the reeds And they re [E]turning down every train that don t [D]feel the right speed

Sing them this [A]song when you pass by It ll be your last good deed Ah [E]babe, it s [Em]true
The [D]saints are down every line waiting just for [A]you.
