Verse 1: (no guitar, but the banjo continues to play a similar pattern as in the intro. I wrote the chords in anyways.)

```

D           G           D           G
I vowed this wouldn't be, another lost summer.
D           G           D           G
I've looked around, but I can't see, that old time summer.
      D           G           D           G
It's still hot, but I look at what I've got... and all I feel is number.

```

Guitar Fill (uses to come in after verse 1, and periodically throughout the rest of the song.)

```

E |-----|
B |-----|
G |-----|
D |-----0--|
A |-----2-3-2-----|
E |--3--3-----3-----|

```

Verse 2:

```

D           G           D           G
I guess it's too late, to plant those seeds, another lost summer.
D           G           D           G
It's not worth it to pull the weeds, are you ready drummer?

```
