A Bm
It was late one night in Southern Texas
A Bm
My dad was playing in a rock-n-roll band
A Bm
He took me along to a place called Cheatem Street
A Bm
My bags were packed, I was ready to meet you for the first time
D C#m Bm
Oh but a phone call would have been nice

A Bm
I guess you re stuck with what was given to you
C#m
And the world couldn t change my spirit
D C#m Bm
This will remain the same

A Bm
You were young and living like you wanted to
A Bm
I understand because I packed up and left just like you did
A Bm
At 17 you think you got the whole world in your hands
D C#m Bm
Oh in so many ways you did

A Bm
I don t want to have you worry no more

C#m D
Let s forgive and forget and finish what we started
C#m Bm
So we can move on

G D
I want you to know I really needed you then
And I can use you now
G D
I talked to you by listening to all of those stupid songs
G D G G#m
I would sit along side of the fence

A Bm
Now you re doing fine and you re gigging here and there
A Bm
It s been nice to know you for the past few years
A Bm
When you re living the same dream it s easy to read each other for sure
D C#m Bm
Ohhh it could have turned out so different

A Bm
I guess you re stuck with what was given to you
C#m
And the world couldn t change my spirit
D C#m Bm
This will remain forever

A Bm
C#m D
Let s forgive and forget and finish what we started
C#m Bm
So we can move on
