verse:

C G
You re a broken-hearted party girl
F G
Your skirt s on fire, your hair s uncurled
A#5 F
Your dancing days are at an end
C G
Yeah, you ve got no one to call your friend
C G
All you ve got left is a silhouette,
F G
An empty bed, and a cheap Corvette
A#5 F
You re a long way from your sweet sixteen
C
You need some stonewashed jeans
G
And a time machine

chorus:

Dm/F#
To take you back
G
To that railroad track
Where you first took flight
F A#5
In the morning light
Dm/F#
So take me back

G

To that first romance

Where you made your stand

F

A#5

You were hand in hand

Gm

D#5

With the black-eyed angel of the evening star

When you came to the city in your cheap perfume

And you ran through the room

But you grew up soon

Always dressed like a killer in the afternoon

Sipping warm champagne from a silver spoon

In the night you would travel in your lover's car

With your jewels so bright, like a shooting star

But your nightmares must have caught up with you

And all the pills and the prophets couldn't get you through

To take you back

To that railroad track

Where you first took flight

In the morning light

So take me back

To that first romance

Where you made your stand

You were hand in hand

With the black-eyed angel of the evening star

So take me back

You were found on the ground in a lonely town

At the end of the world, in a dressing gown

Your hair was on fire, your shoes were misplaced

On your face was a trace of a distant place

It's a long way home to Wichita

Where they put you back together

Filled your head with straw

Now all you've got left is a silhouette

And a cheap Corvette, but girl, you ain't dead yet

So take me back

To that railroad track

Where you first took flight

In the morning light

So take me back

To that first romance

Where you made your stand

You were hand in hand

With the black-eyed angel of the evening star
