Verse 1

G#
Oh, Monday morning waking up still too numb to speak
Bbm G#
Another night just staring at the wall.

Last night s conversation knocked me off my feet
Bbm G#
guess today I ll fall
Fm C#
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
G# Eb
Be careful of the things we do and watch the things we say
Fm C#
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
G# Eb
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Verse 2

Walk the streets in New Orleans, shirt soaked to my skin
Through the mess of yesterday s parade.
Thousand times a day I think of calling you again
Come to my senses instead.
And every time we walk away we lose a little time
Pretending to each other now that everything is fine.
I know whatever lies I use to get myself to sleep
I wake up to the promises I know we couldn t keep.

Chorus:

G# Eb
Say you don t see what s wrong
Fm C#
Every night lasting oh so long,
G# Eb G# C# Eb
And I know, I do, you re already gone.

Maybe I could look away back to where we used to be,
Bbm Eb
One more time I wish I could.

Verse 3

Oh, nevermind the reasons that tore us all apart
We ve both done things I know we can t defend.
What s the use in tracing it all back to the start
THere s something missing in the end.
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
Be careful of the things we do and everything we say
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Chorus:

G# Eb
Say you don t see what s wrong
Fm C#
Every night lasting oh so long,

G# Eb Fm C#
