Verse 1

F#
Oh, Monday morning waking up still too numb to speak
G#m F#
Another night just staring at the wall.
F#
Last night s conversation knocked me off my feet
G#m F#
guess today I ll fall
Ebm B
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
F# C#
Be careful of the things we do and watch the things we say
Ebm B
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
F# C#
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Verse 2

Walk the streets in New Orleans, shirt soaked to my skin
Through the mess of yesterday s parade.
Thousand times a day I think of calling you again
Come to my senses instead.
And every time we walk away we lose a little time
Pretending to each other now that everything is fine.
I know whatever lies I use to get myself to sleep
I wake up to the promises I know we couldn t keep.

Chorus:

F# C#
Say you don t see what s wrong
Ebm B
Every night lasting oh so long,
F# C# F# B C#
And I know, I do, you re already gone.

Bridge:

Ebm B F# C#, Ebm B F# C#
Ebm Ebm
I wonder should I get up, would but what s the point?
B C# F# C#/F#
Oh once something s gone it s gone for good.
Ebm Bb/D# F#/D G#/C#
Maybe I could look away back to where we used to be,
G#m C#
One more time I wish I could.

Verse 3

Oh, nevermind the reasons that tore us all apart
We ve both done things I know we can t defend.
What s the use in tracing it all back to the start
THere s something missing in the end.
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
Be careful of the things we do and everything we say
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Chorus:

F# C#
Say you don t see what s wrong
Ebm B
Every night lasting oh so long,

F# C# Ebm B
And I know, I do, you re already gone.
F# C# F# B C# F#
Oh I know, I do, you re already gone.
