Key G#

Tune down 1/2 step
(Chords shown for key of G)

Intro:

A A Bm A

Verse 1

A
Oh, Monday morning waking up still too numb to speak

Bm A
Another night just staring at the wall.

A
Last night s conversation knocked me off my feet

Bm A
guess today I ll fall

F#m D
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way

A E
Be careful of the things we do and watch the things we say

F#m D
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before

A E
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Verse 2

Walk the streets in New Orleans, shirt soaked to my skin
Through the mess of yesterday s parade.
Thousand times a day I think of calling you again
Come to my senses instead.
And every time we walk away we lose a little time
Pretending to each other now that everything is fine.
I know whatever lies I use to get myself to sleep
I wake up to the promises I know we couldn t keep.

Chorus:

A E
Say you don t see what s wrong
F#m D
Every night lasting oh so long,
A E A D E
And I know, I do, you re already gone.

Bridge:

F#m D A E, F#m D A E
C#m F#m
I wonder should I get up, would but what s the point?
D E A E/F#
Oh once something s gone it s gone for good.
F#m C#/D# A/D B/C#
Maybe I could look away back to where we used to be,
Bm E
One more time I wish I could.

Verse 3

Oh, nevermind the reasons that tore us all apart
We ve both done things I know we can t defend.
What s the use in tracing it all back to the start
THere s something missing in the end.
I wish that we could find the words to look the other way
Be careful of the things we do and everything we say
And maybe then we d get somewhere we d never been before
But what s the use in fighting when you know you ve lost the war.

Chorus:

A E
Say you don t see what s wrong
F#m D
Every night lasting oh so long,

A E F#m D
And I know, I do, you re already gone.

A E A D E A
Oh I know, I do, you re already gone.
