

Lonesome River
Bob Dylan

The Lonesome River by Bob Dylan and Ralph Stanley

A
I sit here alone on the banks of the river
D A
The lonsome wind blows and the water runs high
I can hear a voice call [from] out there in the darkness
E A
But I sit here alone too lonesome to cry

chorus

Oh the water rolls high on the river at midnight

I sit on the shore to grievin and to cry

The woman I love she left me this morning
E A
With no-one to love or kiss me goodnight

We met there one night on the banks of the river sat there holdin hands and makin a vow
That we never would part and be happy together
But a new love she s found - she s gone with him now.

Oh the water rolls high on the river at midnight
I sit on the shore to grieve and to cry
The woman I love she left me this morning
With no-one to love or kiss me goodnight
