Bob Mould - The Descent

Nice and simple song, not 100% sure if correct, just a rough draft - you can use powerchords only as well, maybe mix it up a little...

Intro:

A F#m D (4x)

Verse:

C#m D
I started out so starry-eyed
A F#m D (2x)

Full of hope and wonder
C#m D
And I wore flowers in my hair
A F#m D (2x)

Not aware I d been defiled

Bridge:

E D E D
(Every time I see you) I know it s going down
(How can I believe you?) Karma comes around

Chorus:

A Bm D
I know this ride, you must be there by my side
A Bm D
You going down, I must be descending

(play Intro and Verse like before)

I didn t want to play the song
That gave people so much hope
I turned my back and turned away
Here s the rope that made me choke

(Every time I see you) I know it s going down
(How can I believe you?) Karma comes around

D A Bm (repeat)
You can see it in my eyes

You can read it on my face
You can hear it as I cry
God, I hope it s not too late
Can I try to make it up to you somehow?
Can I try to make it up to you somehow?

Solo-Part:

F#m E Bm D (2x)

D A Bm
You can see it in my eyes
D
You can read it on my face
A Bm
You can hear it as I cry
D A
God, I hope it s not too late
Bm D A
Can I try to make it up to you somehow?
Bm A F#m (E) D
Can I try to make it up to you somehow?

A Bm
Now my race is finally run
D
And as I tumble to the sun
A Bm
All these dreams I can t achieve
A F#m (E) D
Brought me crashing to my knees
My descent has now begun
All the music left undone
My world, it is descending

(play D A Bm A F#m (E) D until the end, end on D)
