And as we marched up to the line, knew we d be back by winter time,

But we soon learnt only the blind... could find their way back home,

And all through Deuteronomy, I cursed whatever had made me,

When the brass would come around, we d stand our feet sunk in the ground,
They d say we d made our country proud, but their England was not mine,
And we must be prepared to die, but they forgot to tell us why,

[Verse 4]
I d not long turned seventeen, when I took the one that finished me,
And I must have lain so peacefully, be - neath the broken sky,
And so they took my life away, and what would the Chaplain say,
                        Dm
