G Am D G
Laura are you still livin there on your estate of sorrows?
G Am D G
You used to leave it occasionally but now you don t even bother
G Am D G
to ride the commuter train west to Chicago
G Am D G
to stroll through the greenery in the park past the statues

Bm Em C D
how her eyes seemed to follow you, like a hated addiction
Bm Em C
their beauty carved out of absolutes you could never claim
or even envision

G Am D G
Laura you were the saddest song in the shape of a woman
G Am D G
yeah I thought you were beautiful but I wept with your movements
G Am D G
but I hope that you re laughing now from that place on the carpet
G Am D G
where we shared a sleeping bag in your sister s apartment
G Am D G
oh how she would worry so, you know I was just a stranger
G Am G
but she asked me to care for you, yes she did
and I went and betrayed her

Bm Em C D
But do you know we re in high demand, Laura, us, people who suffer?
Bm Em C D
because we don t take to arguing and we re quick to surrender.

G Am D G
Well I think I would call tonight if I still had your number
G Am D G
your thoughts have always laid close to mine, and we re both skipping supper.

G Am D G
But you should never be embarrassed by your trouble with living
G Am
Cause it s the ones with the sorest throats, Laura,
D G
who have done the most singing
