

Indelible

Brooke Fraser

Im not sure if this is correct... but it sounds ok to me....

Em                G                D
Walk along here, feel your move
Em                Am                C
Somewhere in front of me
Em                G                D
I can t place you with these eyes
Em                Am                C
For the doubt I can t see

C                        G                        D
How could someone so beautiful
G                D                C
Feel anything for me
Em                                G                                D
Wont you hold me and love me and touch me again
C                        D                        C                        D
And show me why I believe

[Chorus]

C                        G                        D
That the first time I see your face
C                        G                        D
Everything else around me will fade into the background
C                        G                        D
And I ll be struck full by the truth in you gaze as you
C                        G                        D
Work an indelible change in me

Em                G                D
All I have and all I am
Em                Am                C
And all i think and do
Em                G                D
Can find its purpose and meaning
Em                Am                C
And life only in you

C                        G                        D
How could someone so beautiful
G                D                C
Feel anything for me
Em                                G                                D
Wont you hold me and love me and touch me again
C                        D                        C                        D

And show me why I believe
