

Pale and Paralyzed
Brown Bird

Bm Em F#
Even the walls are shaking her down and breaking her mind with unsettling sounds

Bm Em F#
courage collapses and uncertainty rings she tries to summon the strength to
(...)

Bm Em F#
Sinks her teeth into a terrible rage (...) it fix into the darkness

Bm Em F#
She s losing her ground and the war being waged the war being waged by madness

Bm F# Bm F#
She s falling and praying to the shadows caught in the haze with her sadness stage

G F# G F#
Maybe the ground will open Surely the earth will swallow her whole

G F# G F#
One crack and blow to the Temple

G F# G F#
That takes home she s lost control

Bm Em F#
Fire pursuits on the corridor wall she jumps at the sound of each footfall

Bm Em F#
long and dark is the Journey ahead at home her body turns and tosses in bed

Bm Em F#
Often she thinks she hear somebody mean but is just her own blood rushing in her ears

Bm Em F#
The force Inside of her that steers with her head told the beast in the darkness

Bm Em F#
the truth she seeks in the shadows half way between being alive and dead

G F# G F#
The devil is out for her tonight under the moonlight sky above

G F# G F#
She s frozen in fear from lord and fright

G F# G F#
And in her bloodshot eyes she sees the moon up high

G F# G F#
Pale and paralyzed so brighter and white as the bones of a dove.

G F# G F#
Maybe the ground will open Surely the earth will swallow her whole

G F# G F#
One crack and blow to the Temple

G F# G F#

That takes home she s lost control