I wake up in the morning, just glad my boots are on Instead of empty in the whispering grasses down the Five at Forest Lawn
On the set, the makeup girl brings me two raw eggs and a shot of gin
Then I give it all up for that little blue pill that promises to bring it all back to you again

Ride me down easy, ride me down easy, friend
Tonight the western stars are shining bright again

Here in the canyons above Sunset, the desert don't give up the fight A coyote with someone's Chihuahua in its teeth skitters cross my veranda in the night
Some lost sheep from Oklahoma sips her Mojito down at the Whiskey Bar Smiles and says she thinks she remembers me from that commercial with the credit card

Hell, these days there ain't no more, now there's just again
Tonight the western stars are shining bright again

Some days I take my El Camino, throw my saddle in and go East to the desert where the charros, they still ride and rope
 Our American brothers cross the wire and bring the old ways with them
 Tonight the western stars are shining bright again

Once I was shot by John Wayne, yeah, it was towards the end That one scene s bought me a thousand drinks, set me up and I ll tell it for you, friend

Here s to the cowboys, riders in the whirlwind
 Tonight the western stars are shining bright again
 And the western stars are shining bright again

Tonight the riders on Sunset are smothered in the Santa Ana winds
 And the western stars are shining bright again

C mon and ride me down easy, ride me down easy, friend
 Cause tonight the western stars are shining bright again
 I woke up this morning just glad my boots were o
