White roses and misty blue eyes,
D E
red morning s and nothing but grey skies
A
A cup of coffee, your heart shot clean through;
D E
jacket you bought me gone daisy grey blue
D E
You're smiling now but you'll find out,
A D
they'll use you up and spit you out now
E
Your head's spinning in diamonds and clouds,
A E
but pretty soon it turns out

D E
You'll be coming down now baby,
A D
you'll be coming down
E
What goes around here comes around and,
A D
you'll be coming down

A
Easy street and cruel luck and true lies,
D E
smile s as sad as those dusky blue skies
A
A silver plate of pearls my golden child,
D E
it's all yours at least for a little while
D E
You'll be fine long as your pretty face holds out,
A D
then it's gonna get pretty cold out

E Endless streams of stars shooting by,
A E
you got your hopes on high

D E
You ll be coming down now baby,
A D
you ll be coming down

E
What goes around here comes around and,
A D
you ll be coming down

G D
For a while you ll go sparkling by,
B7
just another pretty thing on high

G D E

A
Like a thief on a Sunday morning,
D E
it all falls apart with no warning
A
Satin sky s gone candy apple green,
D E
the crushed metal in your little flying machine

D E
You ll be coming down now baby,
A D
you ll be coming down
E
What goes around here comes around and,
A D
you ll be coming down

D E
You ll be coming down now baby,
A D
you ll be coming down
E
What goes around here comes around and,
A D
you ll be coming down
