Two Black Cadillacs
Carrie Underwood

Intro 2x: C#m

```
C#m                                    A
  Two black Cadillacs driving in a slow parade
C#m                                          A
  Headlights shining bright in the middle of the day
E               B
  One is for his wife
      C#m                        A
  The other for the woman who loved him at night
E           B                         C#m         A
  Two black Cadillacs meeting for the first time
```

```
            C#m
  And the preacher said he was a good man
          A
  And his brother said he was a good friend
          B                                             F#
  But the women in the two black veils didn t bother to cry
```

```
  Bye, Bye Bye, Bye
        C#m
  Yeah they took turns laying a rose down
  Threw a handful of dirt into the deep ground
  B                                           F#
  He s not the only one who had a secret to hide
                          C#m
  Bye bye, bye bye, bye Bye
                    A
  Two black cadillacs, two black cadillacs
```

```
C#m                                      A
  Two months ago his wife called the number on his phone
C#m                                        A
  Turns out he d been lying to both of them for oh so long
E           B    C#m                     A
  They decided then he d never get away with doing this to them
E           B                         C#m        A
  Two black cadillacs waiting for the ride down, ride down
```

            C#m
  And the preacher said he was a good man
          A
  And his brother said he was a good friend
          B                                           F#
  But the women in the two black veils didn t bother to cry
```

```
Bye, Bye Bye, Bye
        C#m
Yeah they took turns laying a rose down
Threw a handful of dirt into the deep ground
 B                                              F#
He s not the only one who had a secret to hide
                            C#m
Bye bye, bye bye, bye Bye
Yeah yeah

F#                                               C#m   B  A
 It was the first and the last time they saw each other face to face
F#                                       C#m        B A
 They shared a crimson smile and just walked away

 And left the secret at the grave

           C#m
And the preacher said he was a good man
          A
And his brother said he was a good friend
          B                                           F#
But the women in the two black veils didn t bother to cry

Bye, Bye Bye, Bye
        C#m
Yeah they took turns laying a rose down
           A
Threw a handful of dirt into the deep ground
 B                                              F#
He s not the only one who had a secret to hide
                        C#m        A
Bye bye, bye bye, bye Bye
                     C#m
Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah
