A Thousand Suns

*To prevent confusion to those who are unsure of this information, the submediant Bm(vi) and subdominant A(IV) chords are in first inversion when the backslash (/) is shown, providing the bass note after (e.g. A/E translates to playing an A Major chord with an E as the bass note). Enjoy!

D                  G  D
I can hear the ancients
D        G    Bm/F#    A/E
Calling out
D                  G   D
They re praying for patience
D        G    Bm/F#    A/E
Shining down
D                  G   D
But their light has faded
D        G    Bm/F#    A/E
Like the sun
D          G   D
And I m persuaded
D          G    Bm/F#    A/E    D   G   Bm/F#    A/E
That nothing now can be done

D                     G    Bm
Can t even hear them now
D                       G    Bm    A
Their light is glowing dim
             D                        G    Bm
And I ve been covering, covering ground
         D                      G    Bm    A
Climbing barriers between us now
           D
We d wait...

D   G   Bm    A

D                    G    Bm    A
Can t even see them now
D                G    Bm    A
The arc swing again
             D                        G    Bm    A
And I ve been covering, covering ground
         D                       G    Bm    A
Crossing barriers that still surround

        We wait for them
D    Bm/F#    G
        The fallen ones
D    Bm/F#    G         A
        Will wake again
D    Bm/F#    G
        A thousand suns
D    Bm/F#    G         A
        We wait for them
D    Bm/F#    G
        The fallen ones
D    Bm/F#    G         A
        Will wake again

Put all emotion aside
D
No matter how hard you try
G
Take what is buried inside
G                         A
You want it, you got it, you might
D
Put all emotion aside
