Pretty Eyes
Chad Blondel

                        Pretty Eyes - Chad Blondel

Tabbed by: tix5150

Some of this is probably very wrong, but I m open to corrections because I really like this song and I want to get it right. Let me know what corrections should be made!

Official website: http://chadblondel.com.au/

Intro:
E   Esus4   E   Esus4

Verse #1:
```
          E
And I don t know what to say
                          Esus4
 E
It s crazy, you steal my words away when I look in your eyes
                                          Esus4
I m usually so confident but lately
                            C#m          B
I m back in third grade
            Esus4                                          Edim7
And I m sorry if yesterday I was someone else
            Esus4                                          E     Esus4
    E    Esus4
But baby, this is what you re doing to me

            E
And I don t know what to say
                Esus4                                                 E
When you look at me that way everything seems to fade

You re beautiful, so perfect
    Esus4                                      C#m          B
And when you smile my world is just fine
            Esus4                                    Edim7
And I m sorry if yesterday I was someone else
            Esus4                     E
Let s go back, I ll start again
```

Chorus:
```
            A
```

```
           E
Cause you make me see that my life before you was just loneliness
        Edim7                                                          Am
And I can t imagine my life without you by my side
        Esus4                                                                  E
The more that I see you the more that I realize you re beautiful
        Edim7                        Am                Esus2sus4      Esus4
Excuse me, Ms. Johnson, where did you get those      pretty eyes?

Verse #2:
          E
And I don t know what to say
                        Esus4
 E
It s crazy, you steal my words away when I look in your eyes
                                        Esus4
I m usually so confident but lately
                                C#m          B
It s like I m back in third grade
          Esus4                                       Edim7
And I m sorry if yesterday I was someone else
          Esus4                                       E
But baby, this is what you re doing to me

Chorus:
           A
        E
Cause you make me see that my life before you was just loneliness
        Edim7                                                          Am
And I can t imagine my life without you by my side
        Esus4                                                                  E
The more that I see you the more that I realize you re beautiful
        Edim7                        Am                Esus2sus4      Esus4
Excuse me, Ms. Johnson, where did you get those      pretty eyes?
```