Skank it reggae style or that choppy strumming pattern. Leaves the trees - chezidek

The herb is free babylon is not free
they just cant stand to see this likkle tree

Verse 1:

when you smoke your dirty coke and it turn you in a ghost do you see me smiling with my trial in my head you been carrying feelings now you in my garden you and your squad is trying to cut down all my herbs

Chorus

Leave the trees, and let them be (lord lord) cant you see, your destroying the environment Leave the trees, and let them be (whoa whoa) cant you see,you boaring a hole inna di o-zone layer

Verse 2:

oh dont shout now i m just a likkle yute now gon give you the food already oh you a gwaan to rude, go steady or everything shall come to a end i run out dem haffi draw fi di (?) such event, you caah get a red cent give i back i (?)

Chorus

Verse 3:

its not just about smoking its my medicine,my food and my clothing and for spiritual reasons my meditations, (??) and its a way of surviving a shoulda ban for the suffering classes think of all the children it sent to school

Chorus

Verse 4:

when you drink your dirty rum and you fall and tumble down do you see me standing with my steal(?) pipe in my hand you been carrying feelings not your in my garden you and your squad is trying to cut down all i herbs

Chorus till fad....
