D
and i said to her its too far for a once in a while

G?
and thats not nearly enough.

D
can you tell me once more of how you wish you could stay how

G?
you ll miss me too much.

D

held in these hands.

G?

locked in the lot.

D

too scared to let go

G?

and she said to me.

Em

D

my eyes my eyes, my hands wont open,

G?

calm and closed, and back to hell.

Em

your heart your hear you arms wont hold,

D

G?

quietly certain and noone to tell.

D

well the second we turn, i swear i ll be down,

G?

under that willow and ride across town

D

G?

and as we laughed she cleared her throat, and began....

D

17 and the day before fall.

G?

help me breath i cant stand at all,

Em

i thought of burning it down, sing like ashes.

D

my eyes my eyes my, hands wont open,

Em

D

calm and closed and, back to hell,

Em

D

your heart your heart you, arms wont hold,

G?

quietly certain and noone to tell.

Em

D

campaigns of the winter come, from the western coast,

G?

with fevers branded to them ,

Em

Em

with lights like rain casting SOS calls let it ring twice and...off

Em

D

campaigns of the winter come, from the western coast,

G?

with fevers branded to them ,

Em

Em

with lights like rain casting SOS calls let it ring twice and...off

then it goes to the kick ass techno ending

this is all credit to Taylor himself. He taught me and so I just put it up here, so please check him and his band out. The other band is called Call her Alaska

Thanks, Taylor
