Goodbye My Red Rose
Colin Hay

Colin Hay â€" Goodbye my red rose

```
A                                          C#
I didn t love you till you d gone
D                                       Bm          E
You told me not to give my heart away
A                                          C#
You were right and I was wrong
D                                       Bm            E         A
G#    A G#  F#
I should have known, I couldn t make you stay
```

I bless the day you were born
I curse the day you saw into me
You said my eyes were so forlorn
Now when I m alone I let my tears run free
They flow so easy, easily
```
     A    C#   D   C#    A
So goodbye my red rose
       D C# Bm  A     G#    B  A
Your memory won t fade away
     A    C#   D   C#    A
When the curtain falls
           D C# Bm  A     G#    B  A
We know you won t be back for more
```

I wonder where you hang your clothes
But on this I never dwell too long
I asked around but no one knows
I should have known that would be your way
Not to, not to say

So goodbye my red rose
In the spring your scent will grow
There s no more curtain calls
And the man has put all the chairs away

So goodbye my red rose
There s no more, no more curtain calls