

Maggie
Colin Hay

The other interpretation was close, but I don't think it was quite right, so I'll give you mine.

Standard tuning Capo - 1st fret

Chords used:

Em: 022000
D: XX0232
C: X32010 (or Cadd9 in the chorus if you prefer: X32033)*
C/B: X20010
Am: X02210
G: 320033

[Intro]

Em - D - Em - C - C/B - Am - Em - G (hammer on the A string) - D

[Verse]

Em D Em C C/B Am
When I first set eyes on you

Em G D
First you beat me up, then you kissed me too

Em D Em C C/B Am
We'd throw stone into the sea

Em G D
There were no others there, just you and me

Em D Em C C/B Am
I crossed the bridge and down the lane

Em G D
I knew I loved you then, you said you did the same

[Chorus]

C G C G
Oh Maggie, what have you done?

C G D
I should've seen it coming, and to your side I'd run

C G C G
Oh Maggie, come to me tonight

C G D
I will wait up for you, make sure you re alright

Em D Em C C/B C Em G D
I miss you

And then carry on with the following verses and chorus the same.
I think this matches the album version, but props to Sam Wilson who did the other one, I was trying it without a capo, a lot easier with one. Comments welcome.

*Cheers to the folk who corrected me on the chorus
