Im a Dog Crash Test Dummies

F С G5 Am I m a dog, and I can smell your smell right through your clothes C \mathbf{F} G F And I espouse some views that you yourself just might not hold С G C Sometimes I am given pause to think when F Αm I consider what we could call the good life

 \mathbf{F} G5 C Am When it comes to the city versus the country life F G С F Well, I must say that I far prefer a farmer s wife С G5 C Breakfast with the master in the morning F Am Feel the breeze and brush against a cow s leg - mmm!

 $\begin{array}{ccc} G & Dm & G \\ \\ \mbox{But} & \mbox{it seems the thinkers you call greatest are} \\ \hline Dm & Bb & F \\ \\ \mbox{The sort who often fall ill young, or pine away} \\ \hline Bb & F & G \\ \\ \mbox{How can they help but drag the species down?} \end{array}$

F G С Am There s some debate about whether instincts should be held in check F G С F Well, I suppose that I m a liberal in this respect С Dm C I can t say I liked Robinson Crusoe Am But at least he didn t tie his dogs up at night

GDmGAnd it seems the thinkers you call greatest areDmBbFThe sort who often fall ill young, or pine awayBbFGHow can they help but drag the species down?

Solo

F G5 С Am How come all your poets fall into despondencies? F С F G And then write it down for us to read every indignity? С Dm С Not such worthy specimens, these creatures F Am Hardly fit for what you could call the good life

G Dm G And it seems the thinkers you call greatest are Вb Dm F The sort who often fall ill young, or pine away Bb G F How can they help but drag the species down? вb F G FGFGFG How can they help but drag the species down?