

Butterfly Bones
Darren Hanlon

Darren Hanlon - Butterfly Bones
Tabbed by Kate
Tuning: Standard
Capo on 5th

C F C
When one year ends and another begins and the sky is a shower of sparks
C G
With your skinny girls arms with the hairs on their ends like exclamation marks
C F C
Well I admit I was scared, I felt unprepared if I need you tell me where you ll be
C F C F C G C
You said "It s not surprising, just look to the horizon, it s the circle in the middle is me"

C F C
A week in the hospital, always sick when you were little, you were brittle like butterfly bones
C G
I wish I had been there to run a comb through your hair - it always smelt like smoke and pine cones
C F C
But then the devil shot through, you got stronger as you grew but they treat you like you re never the same
C F C F C G C
You filled your one good lung and bit down hard on your tongue just to keep yourself from going insane

(Not sure about this part...)

C Am F
Oh Oh Oh
G
Oh

(Interlude, the verses chords, Darren does much finger picking here in a guitar solo)

C F C
C G
C F C
C F C F C G C

(Middle 8)

G C
And the rides keep on turning

G C
And our lives insist on turning
G C
And my mind it keeps on learning
C F
But I can smell something burning mmm

Thanks, Justin, for getting me hooked on Darren Hanlon!
Enjoy! :)
