DAUGHTRY â€" LEARN MY LESSON

INTRO: B

B                              E
Tonight the sunset means so much
   G#m                                      F#
The one thing that you know you never touch
        G#m                  E
Like the feeling, the real thing
    B                      F#
I reach out for the sweet dream
G#m                 F#               E
But somehow the darkness wakes me up

C#m                              E
Well I felt this emptiness before
(Well I felt this emptiness before)
C#m
But all the times that I ve been broken
I still run right back for more
------------------------------------------
REFRÃƒO (Chorus)
                        B                    F#
You d think that I d learn my lesson by now
                      G#m              E
You d think that I d somehow figure out
            G#m
That if you strike that match
      F#                   E
You ve found a field of flames
                        B                F#
You d think that I d learn the cost of love
            G#m              E
And paid that price long enough
    G#m                F#
But still I drive myself
right through the pain
          G#m
Well it turns out
     F#                B
I haven t learned a thing
    E          F#         G#m
Oh yeah

------------------------------------------

G#m                                    E
Sometimes I think I m better off
B                                          F#
To turn out the lights and close up shop
       G#m             E          B
Didn t give up the longing, believing
        F#
And belonging
G#m                    E                F#
Just hold down my head and take the lost

(REFRÃƒO) (Chorus)

REFRÃƒO (Chorus)
                          B                    F#
You d think that I d learn my lesson by now
                     G#m                E
You d think that I d somehow figure out
               G#m
That if you strike that match
      F#                    E
You ve found a field of flames
                          B                    F#
You d think that I d learn the cost of love
               G#m                E
And paid that price long enough
     G#m                    F#
But still I drive myself
right through the pain
          G#m
Well it turns out
    F#                    B          E
I haven t learned a thing, Yeah

                          B
I haven t learned a thing
I haven t learned, haven t learned
   E                        B (opcional)
I haven t learned a thing
